

The Above and Beyond 'Thunder Clap'
Recognition for the Week of December 2nd:

Madison Hageness

Hometown Pride:

"I am proud to be a part of this community because we are truly a family. No matter if you have a child in a sport, or if you're just part of the community, you always see so much support at games. Also, when our community is going through rough times, we all come together to help one another out."

Bleacher Report (activities):

Sports: Volleyball

Clubs: Above and Beyond, TADD, NHS, and Student Council

Thunder Role:

"As an athlete and club member, younger students look up to us. They want to be in the roles we are in right now some day. If they see us using drugs and alcohol, then they think it's what they're supposed to do to fit in."

Topic Thunder:

"Students need to stay away from drugs and alcohol because they are terrible for our health and mental growth. Drugs no matter what age are terrible for you and should never be done. However, our bodies are not mature enough for alcohol. We can't comprehend what is enough to drink, how not to make stupid decisions, and who to hang out with. All students must wait until they are of age to drink and not hurt selves when we're young."

Scouting Report (quotes from teachers):

"Madison Hageness has shown strong leadership and perseverance in mathematics. She is a role model for all students and a pleasure to work with!" – Mr. Bergeron

"Madi is a conscientious student and has done a tremendous job at CCF Bank in the Youth Apprenticeship Program. Thank you for representing OFHS!" – Mrs. Steinke

Fan Deck (quotes from peers):

"Madison puts in a lot of effort in her school work, life and job. She sets a great example."

"Madi is responsible, loving and respectful."

"Madison is caring, smart, works hard and is a great leader."

"Madison shows respect to everyone and leads by example."

"Madison treats teachers really well and is very involved academically."

Hometown Hero:

"Amy Ramseier is my hometown hero. Amy does so much for her students away from the classrooms. She gives up most of her nights and weekends to go into school and work on her class lessons. All of her students look up to her and love her as their teacher."
