Recognition for the Week of October 1st:

Shaun Windhorst

Hometown Pride: "The Osseo-Fairchild community has humbled me as an individual. I've been thought what is right and wrong from people I know and respect a lot. Being able to know and willingly trust everyone in a town of two thousand people is pretty special."

Bleacher Report:

Sports: Football and Baseball

Clubs: Above and Beyond, NHS

Thunder Role:

"I think it is important for student athletes / club members to be good role models because being a good role model is a privilege and a lofty responsibility. People look to you for guidance and leadership. You are an example. It's very important to be a good example and a responsible leader as others will follow you and learn from your actions. As a role model, those you look up to you think your words are true and your actions are valid. So do and say what is right."

Topic Thunder:

"As a young adult, drugs and alcohol can be particularly harmful. Bad decisions stem from drug and alcohol use. Those decisions can affect an individual negatively for many years. Not only do drugs distress mental health though, they greatly impact physical performance and athletic ability."

Scouting Report:

"Shaun has the characteristics of a wonderful student and a great friend. He is so positive and has fought through many trying times in his life so far. His love for his peers is an outstanding quality. It has been a great pleasure having him as an athlete and also as a student." – Mr. Boettcher

"Shaun does a great job adding to class discussions and I know I can rely on him to turn in quality work. I am excited that Shaun has decided to join FBLA this year and I can't wait to see how he does in competitions." – Mrs. Steinke

"It has been fun to witness Shaun's hard work pay off with his successes both in the classroom and on the playing fields." – Mr. Stoik

Hometown Hero:

"My hometown hero is Lisa Boettcher. She is a wonderful woman and besides being arguable the most supportive and loud Thunder fan, she does a great job of tending to the needs of the Thunder football team. She cooks a full meal for 20 plus boys every Wednesday and couldn't be more happy to do it. She loves all of us and I appreciate that greatly!"
